(Red Wing, MN)... Red Wing Framing Gallery announces a new location.

“We are invested in Red Wing for the long term and we are very excited about this new location,” said Valerie Becker, President of Red Wing Framing Gallery. “This move is consistent with our business growth plans. We looked at moving to either of the major neighboring cities and decided that Red Wing has everything that Rochester or Minneapolis has to offer. Red Wing has a strong creative culture and the natural beauty of the area is a major attraction for us.”

“We knew we wanted to stay downtown, remain active in the community and focus on providing a best-in-class business offering. We will continue to provide art venues, but the priority will be in creative art partnerships, several of which are imminent for this year. We should be completely moved in by April 1st.”

The new address is 312 West Avenue, Red Wing, MN and is the original location of The Lidberg Studio, one of the first photography studios in Minnesota. Andrew and Edward Lidberg were prolific photographers in the 1890’s and early 1900’s and pioneers in color photography.

Red Wing Framing Gallery (www.RedWingFraming.com) is located in the historic district of Downtown Red Wing and specializes in art project management, custom framing, fine-art digital printing and studio portrait photography.
